A Dangerous ‘Game’ : The pushback of migrants, including refugees, at Europe’s borders

Oxfam, 6.4.2017, 18 pp.

People who are trying to access the EU in search of safety and dignity are being routinely abused by law enforcement officials in countries in the Western Balkans. State agents responsible for upholding fundamental rights are instead subjecting people to violence and intimidation and denying access to asylum procedures to those seeking international protection. Governments in the region must immediately end these violations and initiate processes to ensure safety and dignity for people on the move in their territories.

FXB Center for Health and Human Rights, Harvard University, 17 April 2017, 51 pp.

The report documents an alarming pattern of exploitation and abuse, including physical violence and sexual abuse. It examines the complex factors that expose children as young as 11 to regular sexual exploitation in central Athens, and it investigates the circumstances in Greek camps that contribute to regular patterns of violence and abuse. A key finding is that children rely on selling sex to raise money for their survival or to pay smugglers to facilitate their onward journeys.

HRW, April 2017, 62 pp.

The report documents how Israel systematically bars human rights workers from traveling into and out of Gaza, even where the Israeli security services make no security claims against them as individuals. Egypt is also imposing severe travel restrictions on its border with Gaza. The International Criminal Court (ICC) prosecutor's office should take note of the restrictions in the context of its ongoing preliminary examination of the Palestine situation.

Attack on the Omar Ibn al-Khatib Mosque : US Authorities' Failure to Take Adequate Precautions

HRW, April 2017, 23 pp.

The report found that statements by US military authorities after the attack indicate that they failed to understand that the targeted building was a mosque, that prayer was about to begin, and that a religious lecture was taking place at the time of the attack. A proper analysis of the target and its use would probably have established at least some of these elements. Human Rights Watch has not found evidence to support the allegation that members of al-Qaeda or any other armed group were meeting in the mosque.

"Your Destiny is to Stay with Him" : State Response to Domestic Violence in Algeria

HRW, April 2017, 72 pp.

They face social stigma, economic dependence on the abusers, a shortage of shelters, lack of an adequate response from the police, the prosecutors, and the judges in investigating abuse, and judicial hurdles such as unreasonable evidentiary requirements.

Lasten hyvinvointikertomus : Katsaus helsinkiläislasten hyvinvointiin 2017

Helsingin kaupungin tietokeskus, 2017, 44 s.

Neljäsosa helsinkiläisistä lapsista asuu yhden huoltajan tai vuorohoitoperheessä ja neljänneksellä lapsista ainakin toinen vanhempi on vieraskielinen. Helsinkiläiset vanhemmat ovat koko maahan verrattuna korkeammin koulutettuja, parempituloisia ja heillä on vähemmän lapsia perheessä. Lapsiperheiden hyvinvoinnissa on näkyvissä polarisaatiota ja myös alueellista erilaistumista. Työllisyyden ja toimeentulon haasteet kasaantuvat erityisesti yhden huoltajan perheisiin, monilapsisiin perheisiin sekä maahanmuuttajaperheisiin.

The Economic Integration of Refugees in Canada: A Mixed Record? / Lori Wilkinson and Joseph Garcea

MPI, April 2017, 31 pp.

This report provides an overview of the key components and features of the Canadian refugee resettlement system, and examines available data on the labor-market integration and outcomes of refugees, including by resettlement pathway, finding that those who are privately sponsored in some ways have better outcomes than those resettled by the government. The authors draw on data from two large surveys, the Pan Canadian Settlement Survey and the Western Canadian Settlement Survey, to assess outcomes of recent arrivals and look ahead to the challenges that Syrian newcomers may face.

The Import of “cultural goods” and emigration: an unexplored relation / Mauro Lanati and Alessandra Venturini

European University Institute (EUI), 2017, 56 pp. (EUI Working Paper RSCAS 2017/24)

The paper examines the effect of the import of cultural goods as defined by UNESCO (2009): cultural heritage, performance, visual arts, books, audio-visual material and design on emigration decisions. The import of cultural goods, by affecting individual preferences, reduces the cost of any migration move and favors outflows towards exporting countries.
